Area violent incidents prompt collaborative community response

BY JOANNA BEZJACK
Didsbury Review

In response to a growing trend of family violence and bullying in central Alberta, Carstairs and Didsbury FCSS and Didsbury FCSA have partnered to offer a day of learning and collaboration in response to these issues.

"The local FCSS are hearing from the Didsbury Family Services and Safe Community group that the number of family violence cases is increasing in our area and we want to be proactive," says Nicole ety of guest speakers, networking opportunities and access to information booths and resources available throughout the region.

"We want people to leave this day with a better understanding of the community's response to family violence and bullying, and to be informed about what we as individuals can do if we work together to prevent violence," says Aasen.

Keynote and guest speakers include: Sacha Aldrich, coordinator with Community Initiatives against Family Violence; Patrick Dillon, Family Violence and Bullying coordinator for Central Alberta Children and Family Services; Chinook Arch Victims' Services; Strathmore Women's Shelter and Central Alberta Women's Emergency Shelter.

"We are also going to be having community sessions discussing what family violence and bullying issues are evident in your community, what concerns your agency is facing in responding to these community issues and what resources and services your agency can deliver in responding to the issues," says Aasen.

Aasen says the speaker series is mainly for those in the people services field but that they encourage municipal leaders and business leaders in the community to attend as the best way to prevent family violence is with a community-based approach.

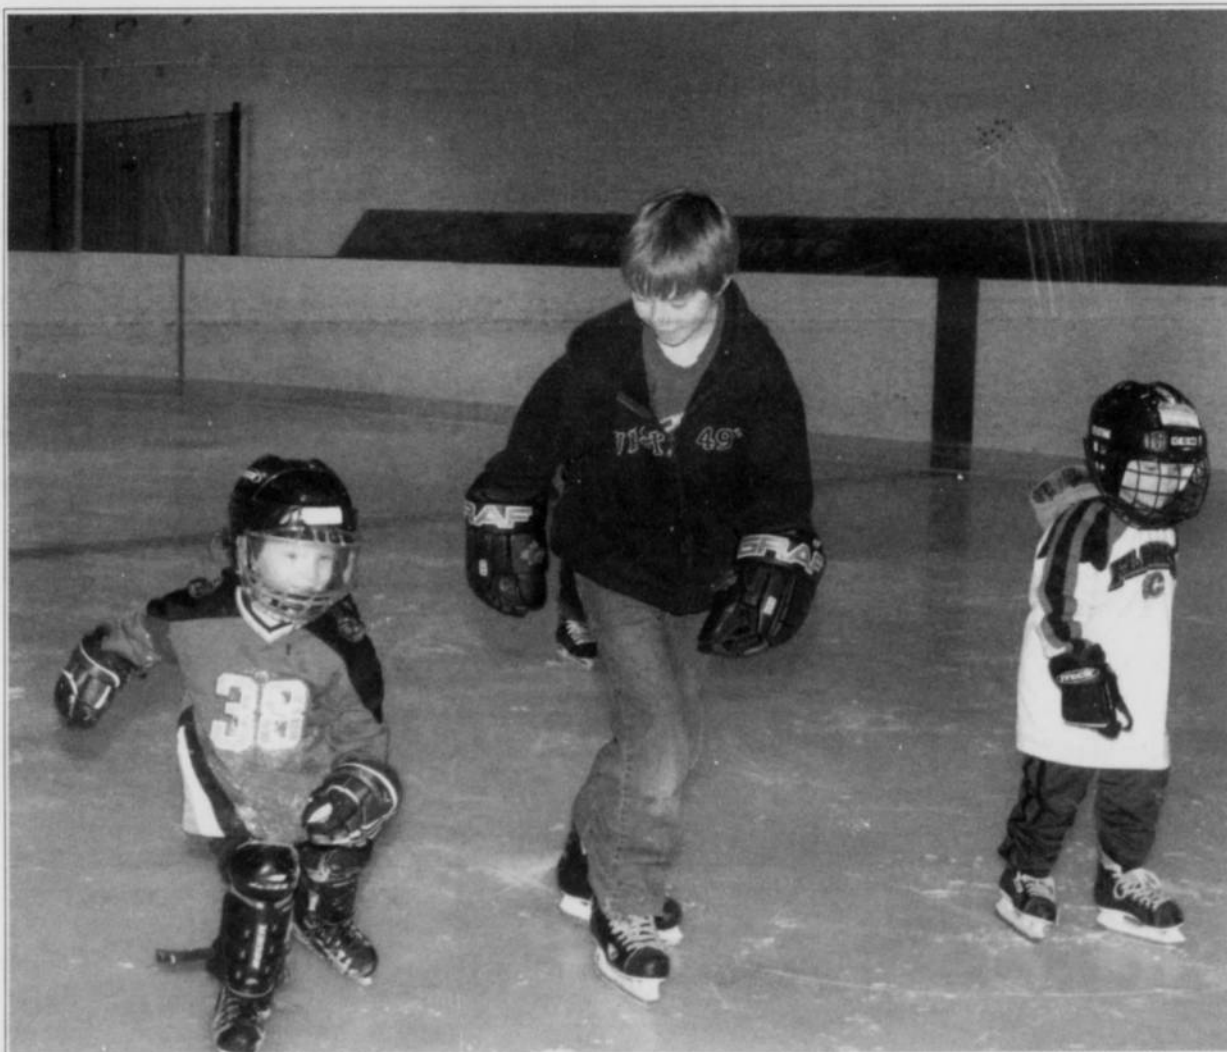

"We want everyone in a community to acknowledge that there is a problem, be aware of the signs, be open to helping someone and be aware that it is in the community," says Aasen. "We are very excited to see the turnout, but our goal is to pursue provincial family violence funding to bring programs to the community."

Elks staying put

Group quashes rumours of relocation

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

It's official, the Didsbury Elks #514 aren't going anywhere.

Elks brass confirm rumours circulating since the summer led some to believe the charitable group may be looking for a new home.

However, 49 members voted unanimously in favour of the Elks staying put, at a meeting Thursday night.

"There was a rumour that our lodge was up for sale," said Bill Ward, secretary of the lodge.

"We wanted to put an end to it."

Ward says he was certain the vote would go the way it did.

"The hall is a real advantage to us," he said.

"We can do things with our groups, the Elks and the Royal Purple, that it would be very hard to find another building in town where we could have the same sort of use of."

Ward says there were no proposed alternative locations that the group felt were more advantageous than the present lodge.

Ward says the lodge is not suffering financially.

"There were people questioning, as we should all do, what the cost of keeping our building is," said Ward.

"There are always costs involved, but right now we feel those costs are justified."

Ward says the Elks have decided to try alternative options in generating additional revenue.

Some of the ideas include, developing a theatre group that would work out of the building, family dances, and teen dances, among others.

The club now has supper prior to all meetings, and invites the public to attend and learn more about the group.

Ward says the group is not opposed to the idea of switching locations in the future.

"If somebody says, 'this building is better suited to us and will serve us better,' we will certainly look at it.

But, for the present, we are not interested in selling our property."

Habitat for Humanity disappointed by poor local support

BY ANDREW WILD
Didsbury Review

A local charity housing project may be delayed if new directors are not found for Habitat for Humanity Mountain View.

According to the chairman for the regional chapter, no new directors stepped forward at their annual general meeting on January 9, putting this year's project slated for Olds in jeopardy.

"It was very disappointing for us... we didn't have a single person from the general community show up," explained Chuck Brinton. "We have no new directors and still are in desperate need of getting new ones if indeed we are going to have a project in Olds this year."

A number of directors have already stepped down while some are staying on in an interim basis until replacements are found.

"They have a finite limit as to how long that will be," suggested Brinton.

Currently the board features three directors each from Cremona, Sundre and Olds with another two from Didsbury. In total, five to six new directors are required. Interested individuals are welcome from any one of the communities encompassed by the group.

Brinton emphasized that Habitat for Humanity Mountain View is a regional charity and not limited to one community.

He said last year's build in Sundre was the result of contributions from numerous people from the Mountain View region and beyond.

"We want to discourage the idea that you only get involved if it's being built in your town," said Brinton. "It's important that we view it as a Mountain View project."

He also emphasized that people interested in joining the organization do not require a formal background in construction or building, although that type of expertise is always welcome.

All that's really needed is a willingness to help steer any one of the committees or projects that are part of any build.

"We definitely need people because I can guarantee you with the number of people we have now it will just not be enough manpower to get everything done," added Brinton.

Plans call for a duplex to be built on the land formerly home to the RCMP detachment in Olds. In 2007 the group received a $60,000 grant from the Alberta Real Estate Foundation.

According to Brinton only one step remains in the process of getting the land transfer approved by the federal government.

"We're just waiting on ministerial approval," he said, adding they're hopeful for the final rubber stamp by spring.

Hopefully by then enough people will have stepped forward to begin working on the project, according to Brinton.

Interested individuals can contact Chuck Brinton at 335-3741 or they can leave a message through the charity's number at 507-7994. More information is available on their website at: www.mountainviewhabitat.ca.

Opinion

Commentary Good Samaritans discouraged from helping out

JOANNA BEZJACK

Good Samaritans tempted to pull over to help out motorists stranded on the side of the road are now being encouraged by RCMP to keep on driving after a man was severely beaten near Bassano.

The man, who was viciously strangled when he pulled over between Brooks and Bassano to help the occupants of a car that was sitting on the side of the highway, says he will be more cautious in the future and local police agree.

It is reported that after pulling to the side of the highway the driver was blinded by high beams of the stranded car and then ripped out of the vehicle before being beaten over the head.

The victim managed to get back in the car and drive away, but not before receiving a head laceration requiring nearly 30 stitches from the three men who police say were likely attempting to steal the car.

Bassano RCMP Const. Kathy Horwood suggests motorists driving past a stranded car use a cell phone to call for help or to give word in the next town instead of pulling over.

It's unfortunate and very sad that this particular motorist was duped into an attack after trying to do the right thing, but to suggest that drivers should never offer their own assistance to those in need of help is unethical.

The public should be encouraged to help out when able, especially in winter conditions when a helping hand is most likely needed.

Of course, every situation is different and each motorist should assess the risk and consider simply calling for help against pulling over if they feel there is even a remote chance of danger. But to suggest that the days of one driver helping out another is over, is a discouraging thought.

Alberta roads are notoriously hazardous in the winter and it can be risky to drive past a stranded car and to assume that they will be located quickly and helped by police when a storm is moving in and the temperature is dropping.

Help should be given readily if needed as no one who has been stranded wants to live in a world where car after car simply cruises by without slowing and the only friendly face offering help are from those who are paid to do so.

Commentary Everybody's Business

IAN TAYLOR
Didsbury Trustee

Sometimes, writing this column brings unexpected rewards. Such was the case last month when I received several e-mails from former students over the description of the old high school now awaiting demolition. The most interesting one went as follows:

Mr. Taylor,

I have just read your commentary in the Didsbury Review. I will first let you know that you were my Principal from the time that I spent at DHS, 1981 to 1986 when I graduated. Secondly I was that student that had the huge sliver in my hand, Jimmy Wackett had brought me to your office. My hand never gave me a problem at the time or since then, but your reaction was very true.

After graduation I joined the Canadian Navy and have been with this wonderful career for over 21 years. I have not had the opportunity to go back into the school since I left twenty something years ago, unfortunately I would usually get home for holidays when the school was closed or was full of students. I have seen and experienced many things, but always remember DHS for the great times that I had. Your description of "what was" filled me with memories and saddened me to read the state that it had to end up as. I am presently in the Arabian Sea sailing on board HMCS CHARLOTTETOWN and love to read the Review when it is posted on the internet Wednesday mornings. It was a delightful surprise!

Thank you Mr. Taylor, although long over due, for providing me an education that has allowed me to see the world! I wish you, your family and all those that educate our children a "Very Merry Christmas"

Nulli Secundus;

Roger Proulx
Chief Petty Officer Second Class
HMCS CHARLOTTETOWN

Half way across the world Roger had read the Review while most Disburians were still in bed, and by coincidence recognized himself in my article. It was a real treat to receive this message. I subsequently contacted Roger and received his permission to reprint his letter since it should be a source of pride and interest to our community.

On another topic, that of teacher bargaining, I have been silent, hoping to comment on the agreement after it comes into effect (all being well) on January 31st. However, the editor contacted me with some questions about the looming deadline so for clarification I thought it best to outline where we are in the process.

Late last Fall, the Provincial Government and the A.T.A. reached a Memorandum of Agreement. The central issue was that the Government assume the unfunded portion of the pension liability (to which the average teacher contributes 3.1% of his salary) in return, the A.T.A. would guarantee no strikes during that time. The other important parts of the agreement are: a 3% raise for 2007 - 2008, then subsequent annual increases set by the Average Weekly Earning Index, a lump sum payment of $1500 to each full time teacher in the Spring of this year, and a Government assurance that it will make no changes to the status of teachers or the framework under which the A.T.A. operates.

All other benefits and working conditions had to be negotiated locally and that's where we are now. Our Board is still in negotiations with the A.T.A. local and the two parties are using the services of a mediator. It has come down to a few tough issues but I am hopeful things will be resolved.

If any of the 62 Alberta school boards does not conclude an agreement with their A.T.A. local by January 31st then the Memorandum of Agreement is void and that would be a great pity. From the teachers' point of view it gets rid of a long-standing irritant - the unfunded pension liability - and assures raises to keep up with the cost of living. From the Government and Boards' point of view it guarantees labor peace for the next five years. The real beneficiaries of that will be our students.

The opinions expressed in these articles are my own, not necessarily those of the Board. If you wish to contact me about educational matters you may do so at phone, 335-8575, or e-mail nanatee@telusplanet.net.

Bylaw Corner

DEREK SUTHERLAND
COMMUNITY PEACE OFFICER

So far this winter has been relatively mild and we have not been subjected, in any large degree, to the usual snow accumulation and retention. But, make no mistake it will come and it will stay for longer than we want it to. So I wanted to take this opportunity to remind everyone that it is important to keep the sidewalks in front and to the sides of your property clear and safe for pedestrians. The bylaw requires that snow be removed from the sidewalks abutting any business or residence by the owner or occupier within 24 hours of the last accumulation. As most of us know this is just part of being a good neighbor.

I would also like to mention that it is recognized and appreciated that many people do not stop shoveling at their property line. There are many people out there that continue to clear the snow from their neighbor's sidewalk. Whether you are helping an elderly person or someone who cannot easily do it themselves or are just doing something nice it makes the community a better place to be. Thank You!

Colts standing tall against top opponents

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

Facing a 5-1 deficit going into the third period is an intimidating task against any team.

But when the Mountain View Colts were in such a predicament against the top club in the league, their future looked even bleaker.

But instead, the storyline took a strange twist.

Taking a beating, Didsbury's top offensive weapon Jeff Clazie powered his way to the net and opened the scoring in the third period.

Colts assistant coach Cory Shields said that play was instrumental in what followed.

Didsbury soldiered back for a 7-7 tie against the 24-4-0-1 Lightning in town Sunday afternoon.

"It was an exciting game," understated Shields.

Prior to their dramatic comeback was a road match versus the Medicine Hat Cubs on Saturday.

Again, the Colts showed a renewed confidence in taking a more potent opponent to the finish line.

In the final two minutes of regulation, Medicine Hat scored to win the game 4-3.

Luke Tannas, Mike Arnold and Clazie scored for the Colts.

The locals outshot the Cubs 33-29 in the loss.

Didsbury also found the win column last week, with a 7-3 blowout victory over the Ponoka Stampede 7-3.

Danny Miller, Kobie Freeman, Tannas, Kody Wickham, Pat Turville, Scott Parker, and Justin Duncalfe scored for the Colts.

"It was a character-building week for us," said Shields.

The Colts have a busy week ahead with four games on their schedule, with road games against the Blackfalds Wranglers and Okotoks Bisons, Tuesday and Friday respectively.

In home dates, the Colts will face the Wranglers for a rematch on Saturday at 8 p.m., and the Coaldale Copperheads on Sunday at 3 p.m.

The Colts are presently 9-12-1-2, good enough for fourth place in the Lakes Division.

Rambler Minute

The Didsbury Ramblers peewee team is kicking it into high gear as playoff season approaches. Returning from a very successful tournament this past weekend in Rimbey, the boys may have found the successful mix of chemistry to earn them a playoff spot. Their first game against Rimbey was hard-hitting and the Ramblers outclassed them with a 5-2 victory. A second game loss to Strathmore was hard fought, with our boys outshooting the opposing team 57-26. The final game against Red Deer turned out a dominating 8-1 win.

Our talented squad of kids is captained by Matthew Whidden and assistants Julian Gerber, Sawyer Topping, and Jay Gole. The bone crunching D-men are Tony Gole and Kelly Wallace. Fast footed forwards include Braden Houtman, Timothy Kreuter, Keenan Chomyn, Jace Sorensen, Austin Reister, Irwin Mahon and Braden Whidden. Solid between the pipes we have Tylor Lindsay and Ty Sawatzky. The boys owe their success to the dedicated and disciplined coaching staff of Bruce Robertson, Cal Brassard, Randy Hunter and Rick Wannamaker.

The next scheduled home game for the peewees is Feb. 2nd against Siksika.

Bantams role models for up and comers

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

It's a Wednesday afternoon, and four Didsbury Ramblers bantam players with skates and their equipment, are headed to the Didsbury Memorial Complex.

The team doesn't have a game or a practice - but instead, Travis Smith, Chris Beach, Logan Redman, and Riley Latour are continuing their role in a season-long program, that is helping the town's young hockey hopefuls receive a better grasp of the sport.

This is the first year members of Didsbury Minor Hockey are offering their skills, knowledge and time to the Didsbury Pre-Hockey Program.

The program, instructed by Jeanette Austin, offers children in the four-to-seven age range, lessons on skating skills that will benefit them as hockey players.

"Skating is 90 per cent of hockey, so that's what we concentrate," said Austin, adding that stick handling skills are also offered.

Members of the Didsbury Skating Club Executive Committee felt the program offered a synergy that would benefit Didsbury Minor Hockey as well.

"We had no trouble recruiting four fantastic players to help, with more Bantams willing to be alternates," said Elke Redman, spokesperson for the Didsbury Skating Club.

"The Bantams are serving as role models to the little ones and have shown a very nurturing, caring attitude towards the young skaters. It is very heartwarming to watch. This program has proven to be a huge success for everyone involved and we look forward to continuing it in years to come."

Austin says the young tutors have been fun, helpful additions to the class.

"The four bantams have been amazing," she said.

"It's been really neat seeing the way they are with the kids."

Austin says, while the Bantams have been useful in helping the little skaters develop, they have also grown themselves, particularly as leaders.

"Kids that age can be a handful, and they have been amazing. I've been so impressed with them."

Typically, Austin will demonstrate a skill, and if one of the little skaters struggles executing it, one of the Bantams will lend a hand.

"When you have a class of ten kids, it's difficult helping them each one-on-one, and that's what they do with the kids," she said.

"The boys have been very dedicated and very patient with the kids, and have been a great asset."

Beach says he's enjoyed being a mentor.

"It's been fun," he said. "It's been nice being able to help the kids that will be doing what we're doing, soon."

In addition to helping out the little ones, Beach says it's good for the players to get the extra time on the ice, for workouts and to polish their own skills.

Library celebrates 100 years

One hundred years ago, on January 25th a group of civic minded Didsburians got together to form the "Didsbury Free Library Board". They made arrangements with the local school board to use an available classroom on the second floor of the new sandstone school (built just the year before and now home to the Didsbury and District Museum).

Mr. J. E. A. Macleod, Chairman, Mrs. H. E. Osmond, Secretary, and Messrs. Sexsmith and Atkins started the little town of Didsbury on the road to excellence in library service – a tradition and commitment that remain to this day. In those early days the library subscribed to newspapers such as "The Halifax Chronicle" and "The Canadian Courier". These indicate a progressive scope and range of vision that remain evident in the library's current subscriptions to the "Calgary Herald" and the "Globe and Mail" and, of course patrons' access to The Alberta Library's online suite of 200 newspapers from across the nation.

Early financial reports indicate that Mrs. Long was paid $5.00 for three months service as librarian and the annual report for 1910 shows that 1,500 books were lent out. Well, "we've come a long way, baby", the present library manager is happy to report, simply stating that she does indeed make somewhat more than Mrs. Long's $5.00 and that circulation for 2007 is well over 50,000! However, notes from early meetings indicate that the Board felt that the reading room should be open every evening – something for the present Board to consider in their upcoming planning deliberations. 2008 will prove to be an exciting year for the Didsbury

Municipal Library, the staff, the Board, and the newly formed Friends Society. The first official act will be to make library services free once again – no more borrower card fees in 2008! The whole community is invited to join us for cake and coffee at an all day Open House, Friday, January 25. The library will also be honouring national Family Literacy Day with free draws and contests. Please join us as we celebrate the last 100 years of library service in Didsbury and start planning for the next!
